Fashion of the 19th century is a study in contradictions and transformation. Fashion historians have come to call the change of men's fashions from the 18th to the 19th century "the great masculine renunciation." The lines of the clothing became simple and stark, and the ease of wearing these suits made it an example of "modern" fashion, compared with the backwardness of women's clothing, still mired in the constrictions of ruffles, corsets, bustles, and lace.
