Hi, this is a series of six books developed for anyone who wishes to enter the world of concrete, quality control both on site and on the ground, and for researchers, and auditors who are fascinated by the world of concrete.

In this first book find basics of concrete, approached from a pedagogy where we can all build knowledge, the story was framed building homes for a group of families, and their parents work in the work and they are in a camp very nearby, children have entered the stage rental in school and these come together to play, and through play where knowledge is developed.

It is an educational proposal where we can all learn from everyone and everything, no matter where we are. I can learn math, geometry, social sciences, science, nature, art, languages, physics, chemistry this is a pedagogical drive for knowledge
