This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1865* edition. Excerpt: ... CHAPTER III. Dorothea's Mother. Before entering upon the narrative of Miss Trndel's own life-history, we cannot do better than here introduce, as an appropriate preface thereto, the true story of Eine Mutter (A Mother). It will describe, more naturally than we could do it, the circumstances amidst which the mind of Dorothea was developed, and the influences, adverse as well as favourable, under which her character was formed. It has been tritely said, " If there were more Hannahs there would be more Samuels." How many who are prophets in Israel have owed, under God, the honour in which they are held, and the grace which they possess, to the mothers who, in habitual prayer, presented them before the Lord! It was thus with the subject of our memoir; she was trained in a holy home, and amidst her earliest memories she could recall a mother's prayers. No marvel that the seed thus sown should in due time bring forth its rightful fruit. God's promises were abundantly fulfilled in the case of Madame Trudel. She trained up her children in the way that they should go, and when they grew up they departed not from that narrow path which leadeth unto life. "Her children did rise up and call her blessed." EINE MUTTER (A Mother): IHB TBUE STOET OP A MOTHEB's LIFE. A witness for the truth desires to record for the glory of God and the blessing of souls some memorials of a mother's life; one who, amidst deep suffering and crushing trial, pressed forward on her pilgrim way, suppressing every murmur that the hardships of her lot might naturally have called forth, and leaving behind her the glory of a bright example, an example which has been a source of daily encouragement and daily strength to those who were privileged to call her "mother." She was...
