'I needed to talk to another wife, someone who understood what I was going through. I didn't feel like there were many resources that would help in the way that I was looking for. There were tons of materials out there about brain injuries, what to expect, and even from the point of view of the person that is injured, but nothing to help me cope with the emotions I was feeling. There was nothing to help me know whether what I was feeling was normal and what to do about it. I wanted to know how someone else got through their difficult circumstance. So I wrote this book specifically for other spouses from the point of view of a spouse of someone with a traumatic brain injury.'
